A three-tiered wedding cake decorated the bride's table.

Many beautiful gifts were received by the happy couple from friends and relatives.

Trucker and Wife Escape Injury

GRASSLAND.— Truck owned and driven by N. Seminchuk of Grassland was involved in what might have been a serious accident, when the steering gear failed two miles west of Donatville. The truck, loaded with livestock, careened into the ditch, badly twisting the front axle. Passengers in the cab included Mrs. Semenchuk and Mr. Mike Dutchak, who both suffered a severe shaking up. Truck was towed back to a Grassland garage, and load was taken on to Edmonton by Mr. Steve Luchka.

Forest Fires Plague Alberta

Still early in the fire-menaced season of summer, forest fires are already plaguing northern Alberta. Light rainfall has aided fire fighters in some instances. Here men are shown fighting a fire near Lac La Biche. It is the duty of those travelling in recreation areas to exhibit extreme care in extinguishing camp fires and cigarette butts.

School Secretary Faces Trial in Autumn

LAC LA BICHE.—Former secretary of the Lac la Biche school division, Marie Yvonne Langevin, 31, will not be tried until fall on the 385 charges now facing her. She is presently charged with arson ,thirty charges of fraud, and 354 charges of forgery.

Appearing in supreme court in Edmonton last week, the woman was remanded until fall assizes for trial.

The 31 charges, heard at preliminary hearing by Magistrate R. Baynes at Lac la Biche in April, centred around cheques involving about $7,000 which Miss Langevin is alleged to have issued on school division funds and made payable to herself. The additional 354 charges are said to involve similar procedure with cheques totalling more than $30,000.

When Miss Langevin appeared before Chief Justice Howson for arraignment in supreme court Tuesday, Crown Prosecutor Shortreed made it known that the additional charges will be laid.

Defence Counsel Abe Miller informed the court that he and the prosecutor had agreed that all charges should be tried as a unit and requested the adjournment pending the laying of the extra charges.

Mr. Miller also waived reading of the 31 charges saying he could see no useful purpose in "wasting an hour of the court's valuable time" at the present.

The arson charge results from an alleged attempt by Miss Langevin to burn records of the school division.

Miss Langevin is the youngest daughter of Joseph Langevin, and was born at Lac la Biche Mission where she attended school up to grade eight.

Her parents then moved to Lac la Biche.

For a time Miss Langevin worked in A. Hamilton's general store, and in 1943 she attended summer school at Alberta College in Edmonton.

November 10, 19.4, she was named secretary of Lac la Biche School Division, No. 51, in which capacity she remained until time of the fire.

Investments

Federal Aid For Flood Victims

A month after victims of the Manitoba flood left their homes and farms to desolation and ruin, the Federal government has come forward with a firm offer of 12½ millions of dollars to help offset the persoanl and individual losses suffered. Granted, that the flood was an "act of God," and that the Liberal administration in Ottawa was not in any way responsible for the catastrophe, this is a mighty long time for property owners to wait in anticipation of such assistance.

Floods in B.C. and Manitoba, drought in Saskatchewan, fires in Quebec—catastrophes on a major scale should be handled as national emergencies. Thank God, there is still no atom bomb war with Russia, but if war comes all the people of Canada will have to foot the bill for bomb damage to private property. Loss of a home in peace time is just as great a loss, individually speaking, if caused by fire or flood of major proportions and there should be some way for the Ottawa government to step in quickly in times of national emergency and let suffering Canadians know that all Canada is backing them in their plight.

Exporting Alberta's Natural Gas

Alberta's Chamber of Commerce, meeting at Red Deer, last week turned down a proposal from the Edmonton and Jasper branches of the organization that the movement should launch a campaign to secure the northern, or Yellowhead route, for the gas pipe line to be constructed to the coast.

The Chamber refused to handle this touchy question on the grounds that as the southern sections of the province oppose the Yellowhead route, it would only create strife and sectionalism in the organization.

We're not particularly concerned with what route the chamber should, or should not back, but we would like to compliment them on this sensible move.

There's far too much home-town drum beating in the country, to the disadvantage of the province or nation as a whole.

Let a group of technical experts decide where the gas line should go. In this way the welfare of all Albertans will be best looked after, rather than having some section progress only to the disadvantages of others.

The Citizens Responsibility

There is a reason for the encouragement of farm co-operatives that is too often overlooked. Our free system of life calls for people to assume a responsibility for their own affairs to the best of their ability. This is the price of liberty.

The multiple partnership of the co-operative offers the means by which the individual can join with others in meeting this responsibility.

Alberta co-operative movements have taught responsibility to the directors, delegates and membership. They have provided farm people with an important place in the business life of this province. They have proved their value to agriculture.

New Northern Link

Another milestone in the progress of the north is the new radio telephone service being constructed to serve Redwater, Lac la Biche, Yellowknife and other northern points.

The system employs the utmost in scientific facilities, eliminating telephone lines by the procedure which operates on radio frequency and carries telephone messages.

With each passing month the north becomes more linked with the rest of Canada. Soon only an old-timer's memory will recall the 'isolated north.'

Common Sense In The Forest

From Calgary Albertan

Next week the Canadian Forestry Association begins its annual task of educating the people of the west to the shocking cost and needless waste of forest fire.

Travelling to some 130 communities — some of them so small they never otherwise see a motion picture—the association's "Conservation Caravan" will show films of Canada's forests, how they form so stable a part of our economy, and how quickly, easily—and needlessly—this priceless asset can be diminished.

They hae sombre figures to impel them on this annual caravan. Eight of every 10 forest fires are attributable to human carelessness, they say. These fires are therefore preventable.

More and more people turn to forest areas as a vacation land. Lakes and waterways are the lure and nearby are the forests. This combination of standing timber and human penetration is what causes the association alarm.

The records don't lie. A car speeding through a national park, an open window, a cigarette butt flipped out to light where it may and the damage is done.

A day's fishing at a mountain stream, a campfire, hastily stamped out, but not qute, a sudden breeze, and more damage is done.

These are the human causes and it is to those who use the forests that Canadians look for the exercise of ordinary common sense. The resultant saving would be incalculable.

Scriptural Meditations

By AINSLEY BLAIR

We should not take the testimony of any man as to what the Scriptures teach, but should study the words of God for ourselves. If we allow others to do our thinking, we shall have crippled energies and contracted abilities. The noble powers of the mind may be so dwarfed by lack of exercise on themes worthy of their concentration as to lose their ability to grasp the deep meaning of the word of God. The mind will enlarge if it is employed in tracing out the relation of the subjects of the Bible, comparing scripture with scritpure, and spiritual things with spiritual.

The Lighter Side

"You have no speedometer in your car?"

"No need—if I do forty the lamps on my car rattle—at fifty the whole car rattles—higher than that my teeth rattle."

Prisoner: "It is difficult to see how I can be a forger. Why, I can't sign my own name."

Judge: "You are not charged with signing your own name."

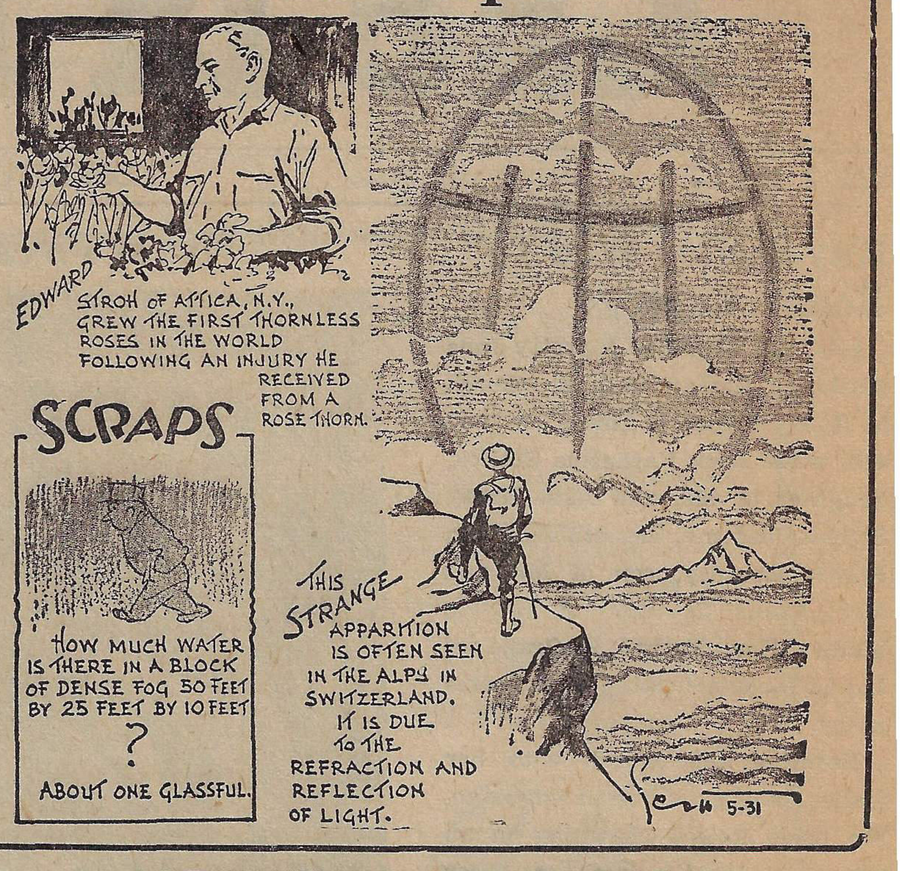

Captain Jevons (introducing an acquaintance to his old aunt): "This is my old friend Jones. He lives on the Canary Islands."

"How interesting," murmured old auntie, and gathering all her wits she added, "Then, of course you sing."

"Come, come, Joan, surely you know if the world is round or square? . . . Mary, tell her."

"It's crooked, teacher," said Mary, darkly.

ADVENTURE IN ALBERTA

By EUSTACE REDDISH

Another oldtimer and one who has made Alberta's Peavine well known throughout the west by his sales of honey, alfalfa, clover and grass seeds is William E. Hallowes who was born in India where his father was an officer in the British regular army, and, as was customary with the children of army officers, he was sent to England to be educated.

His father wanted him to join the regular army but he decided to emigrate to Canada and to take up farming there. In England it was (and probably still is) the custom of some good farmers to take pupils and teach them farming—for a fee of course.

Mr. Hallowes followed this English custom and paid a good farmer near Brantford, Ont., a fee to teach his son how to farm Canadian style. Billy quickly learned by working from early morning until late at night doing all the various jobs and chores that have to be done on a farm. Probably the farmer enjoyed teaching him, at any rate it was a novel experience to have a "hired man" who paid the farmer for the privilege of working for him.

Later Billy attended the Ontario Agricultural College at Guelph and while there he boarded with a family named Matthews. Some members of his family had homesteaded at Glenister, Alta., and so it happened that when in 1912 he joined the throng headed for the west he came to Glenister and located his homestead on the north shore of Chip Lake (now Lake Romeo) at Peavine.

He built his shack on a small promotory which became known locally as Rocky Point. Other places around the lake needed piers to enable people to get on and off boats dry footed, but not Rocky Point. There one could always get in or out of his boat dry footed high or low the level of the lake might be.

Rocky Point was an ideal situation for a shack as, sticking out into the lake as it did, it caught every bit of breeze and so was usually relatively free of mosquitoes—a very important thing in those days as mosquitoes were always in countless myriads, always vicious and hungry and as it is only the female mosquitoes which bite, the males must have been well disciplined and taught to stay home and keep house while the females went hunting for no male mosquitoes were every encountered. We needed no convincing of the truth of the statement that "the female of the species is more deadly than the male."

Of course its ideal situation which enabled it to catch every vagrant summer breeze was against Rocky Point as a winter home as naturally it also caught all the winter breezes in full force. Though so easy of access by boat from the lake its landward approach was usually extremely difficult during the summer, being under water most of the time and one would frequently have to wade through from six inches to a foot of water to get from the shack on Rocky Point to the rest of the farm.

This of course was a great disadvantage to a man wanting to farm and so when Billy returned from World War I in 1919 with a wife they chose another site for their home. But during the years before he joined the 49th Battalion CEF, Rocky Point was our headquarters for many a fishing trip and we certainly had lots of fun there.

Letters to the Editor

Crime and Sex

Dear Sir—We are now faced with more sex crimes than ever, and something should be done about it. Courses in sex education should be urged in public schools. It is much better to learn such matters from someone who knows, rather than pick it up off the streets and get the wrong ideas. Sex crimes should be rewritten by our legislators to make them more strict and definite. Let's have action.

SHAME OF ALBERTA

Riots Rock Fort Prison After Decades of Misrule

EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the story that no Alberta newspaper has ever dared reveal. It is the shocking, unbelievable story of Fort Saskatchewan jail, of the man who rules it with an iron hand, told with brutal truthfulness, with no punches pulled. Nothing has been exaggerated. Countless persons were interviewed, and weeks were spent by this newspaper in investigating this shame of Alberta—Fort Saskatchewan. Here, for the first time, the facts are bared, for all to see.

PART ONE

Rising from the banks of the North Saskatchewan river, 20 miles northeast of Edmonton, are a collection of gaunt, concrete buidings maintained in solitude by locked doors and barred windows.

On a dank day, the fog rises incessantly off the river, casting a pall of gloom over the institution. It is a gloom that well belongs there.

Sealed off from the outside world in virtual seclusion, this is a kingdom of 400-odd men and women, ruled over by a hardened jailer who growls from the bottom of his chest, and bellows out commands to subjects and visitors alike in a harsh and stacatto voice.

John D. McLean, warden of Fort Saskatchewan jail, paced the floor of his office, turned and pounded his desk with his fist.

"If it's war they want, it's war they'll get!"

"Send for the Mounties," he screamed.

Refuses to Listen

This was the prelude to a riot that at last burst the dams of hate building up under McLean's administration at Fort Saskatchewan. Next morning, 300 determined men demanded a hearing from McLean. They struck in the mess room of the institution and refused to leave until he would hear their grievances.

He refused to do so.

Masked Mounted Police rushed into the cavernous hall. The dull thud of exploding tear gas bombs resounded throughout the building, and soon a swirling mass of helpless men charged to and fro in chaos throughout the enclosed walls.

McLean had won again. The reign of terror continued unchecked.

J. D. McLean has been running Fort Saskatchewan in this manner for decades.

He joined the staff of the jail in 1915, after leaving a job as a laborer on a railway construction project.

No Reform

Made warden in 1924, this man has been administering a filthy and rotten hell-hole with little apparent regard to the welfare of those who come under him, or their relatives whose fate is tied up with his subjects, or of even the most casual reformative methods which are supposed to constitute the policy of the jail.

His reign has not gone entirely free of suspicion, however. Investigated in 1940, he was suspended from his post, along with a senior matron of the women's jail, Julia Jackson.

Yet no reasons were ever given to the public for his dismissal, and a month later he was reinstated in his position.

This has always been the way things have been done at Fort Saskatchewan. "No reasons, no comment, nothing to say; not in the public's interest to know," and so on.

Once before, in 1934, the top blew off this simmering cauldron of shame, when a mass meeting at an Edmonton hall was addressed by four ex-prisoners, who exposed the Fort for what it is—'a criminal factory.'

It is the most elaborate, most efficient, and most degrading factory in the land. It turns out hardened criminals at a time when Alberta is suffering from the most severe crime wave it has ever experienced.

Crime Wave

As long as the public remains blind to these reported conditions, your home will never be safe from burglars, nor your wife and daughters from rapists, nor your business and person from armed bandits.

The jails of the province, at a cost of $300,000 a year, are in business to manufacture criminals.

A short while back, J. D. McLean told an inquisitive newspaperman that "there's good in everybody, and if they are treated right they don't make trouble." McLean apparently doesn't live by this philosophy, because there's plenty of trouble at Fort Saskatchewan, even if it doesn't get into the daily papers.

Who's Responsible?

Cause of troubles is rotten food, filthy living conditions, low mental grade of guards, and complete lack of educational or reformative facilities. This is despite the fact that the booklet 'Rules and Regulations of Alberta Jails,' asserts that the prime purpose of Fort Saskatchewan is to reform inmates.

Which is the best policy for a prison to follow: To degrade men under absymal conditions and turn them into hating, spiteful criminals, or to introduce proven methods of reform that can make such people into self-respecting, worthy members of society?

Here is how Fort Saskatchewan operates:

Example:

Callous Brutality

Rotten meat fed to inmates. In mass the prisoners become so ill they cannot perform their menial tasks, can only lie sick on straw cots, suffering from ptomaine poisoning.

Example:

A seventeen year old boy freezes a foot while working in insufficient clothing in sub-zero weather. No medical attention for three days.

WARDEN McLEAN

Example:

A sixteen year old boy is caught conversing with another prisoner through his cell window. He is thrown into the 'black hole'—an unlighted dungeon underneath the prison—and kept there on bread and water for three days.

Example:

A woman, whose husband is serving a year, cannot get in to see him. No reason given. Only by the intervention of a doctor was she allowed to interview him, and then only once during his term.

Example:

Perversion Unlimited

Homosexuals running rampant. Perverts cloistered with juvenile boys in dormitories. Two perverts caught in an indecent act. One returned to the cell block while the other is left free to molest others.

Yet McLean proudly says his place is one of the finest prisons in the land, one that drew praise from the Royal Commission. But what did the Commission have to say regarding the whipping lash it found at Fort Saskatchewan?

See next week's issue for the amazing, shocking answer to this question. Read transcripts of signed statements on file at the office of this paper. Read the daring, spectacular expose of an imprisoned war veteran. Read what a mother has to say. And find out about the John Howard Society—and how they spent the large sums of money donated to their organization last year.

PARADISE CRUISE

Vacation in the Caribbean is An Enjoyable Experience to Travelers

Each year, British Guiana and the British West Indies isles of the Caribbean play host to hundreds of summer tourists who have found that these tropical wonderlands are as much an escape from the heat waves of an American and Canadian summers as they are a refuge from the sub-zero temperatures of a northern winter.

Swept by the perennial north-east trade winds, the temperature in the coastal belt of British Guiana is uniform, rarely rising above 85 degrees or falling below 75 degrees.

A summer voyage to British Guiana provides the tourist with a vacation that is different. In addition to about four days' visit in this only English speaking region in continental South America, there is the unforgettable south-obund voyage of approximately 19 days aboard a liner of the Canadian National West Indies steamships through one of the most colorful areas in the world.

Through the summer season, passenger service to British Guiana is maintained out of Montreal via the majestic St. Lawrence river at approximately 10-day intervals by the company's "Lady Rodney," "Lady Nelson," "Canadian Cruiser," "Canadian Challenger" and "Canadian Constructor," the latter three carrying 12 passengers only.

If Montreal is not a convenient embarkation point, the tourist has the choice of sailing from Halifax or Boston aboard the 'Lady Rodney" or "Lady Nelson" and also from Hamilton, Bermuda, in any of the five above mentioned vessels of the company.

A visit to British Guiana is a fitting climax to a liesurely tour through the Caribbean where the lore of history, the beauty of nature and the ever present sun combine to make this area one of the most romantic in the world.

Georgetown, the capital of British Guiana, is a city of vivid color. Green lawns and tropical shrubs and trees surround the spacious houses which are built high off the ground and architecturally designed to take full advantage of the cooling trade winds. It was founded by the English in 1781 and named after George III.

An early morning visit to Georgetown's famous Stabrock market is an interesting experience. Here under one roof are gathered people of many races as you might meet on a round-the-world cruise—East Indians, Africans, Portuguese, Chinese and perhaps an aborigine from the jungle. All are engaged in the sale and barter of a wide variety of goods ranging from fruits, furniture and parrots to monkeys, Indian basketry and paddles. Many novelties made from belata (crude rubber) make interesting sourvenirs.

If you are looking for the exotic flowers and luxuriant plants of the tropics you will find them in Georgetown's famous Botanic Gardens. Here, within 160 acres more than 200 varieties of tropic horticulture are grown producing a riot of color and fragrance of tropic enchantment. An interesting specimen of tropical flower is the renowned Regina lily which blooms in the artificial lakes throughout the gardens. This lily has blossoms four feet in diameter. These same twelve inches across and leaves lakes provide a home for the friendly manatees or soacows who look like hippotami without lots. A whistle from the visitor will bring them to the water's edge to be fed a handful of grass

Beyond Georgetown, the tourist. if he wishes, may experience the adventure of a jungle picnic, In an eight hour, round trip, from Georgetown, he may penetrate into the depth of the jungle. The route is along the east bank of the Demerara river and thence by launch up the same river to Kamuni creek up which the launch proceeds for an additional five miles.

Following lunch aboard the launch, the tourist may disembark for a tour through the jungle whose sights include fruit trees, wild flowers, monkeys, parrots and the occasional alligator.

No visitor to British Guiana should miss the natural marvel of Kaietour falls. Situated in the depths of the interior, this gigantic cataract is five times higher than Niagara and twice as high as Victoria falls, half as high again as the Pyramid of Gizeh and slightly higher than the Woolworth building in New York.

It has a sheer drop of 740 feet and a second drop of 82 feet. It plunges in a mass of golden brown and amber which changes to cream and pink and saffron as it falls while the rising vapors veil it in clouds of prismatic hues, or bar it with a glorious rainbow. A visit to the falls makes a memorable day's outing by plane from Georgetown.

The visitor will come on something new and different and exciting wherever he goes in British Guiana. This exotic country plus the south and northbound voyages through the Caribbean combine to give the summer tourist a vacation that is different.

Travelers to the Caribbean say the Tropical Sea is the most beautiful area in the world.

Little Known Prophet Was of Royal Birth

Zephaniah is one of the minor prophets about whom little is actually known. The prophecy, in the first chapter and first verse, states that the prophet was the great-great-grandson of Hezekiah and this seems to indicate that he was of royal birth.

He shows, in various ways, that he knows the ways of the royal family and the court, for he condemns them for imitating foreign manners and behavior and dress.

Zephaniah spoke at a time when wise and courageous leadership was needed in Judah. The people had become careless in their religious duties and many of them had taken up the practices of idol worship. More serious was the fact that many of the people were forsaking the ways of God altogether. The prophet saw all this and determined to lead his people to an understanding of what their sons meant .

The prophet condemned the leaders of worship for mixing the worship of Jehovah with that of Baal. To Zephaniah this was as bad or worse than turning away from God. Many of the people had become cynical, claiming that God would do nothing even if they were doing wrong. This was their excuse for entering itno all kinds of evil practices.

Zephaniah denounced the wrongs which he saw, from the rulers who were aping the styles and social practices of foreign nations to the coldly indifferent who did not care what they did. It took real courage for him, a descendant of the royal family himself, to tell the members of the king's household of their sins. It always takes courage to tell people about their wrongs, but it is one of the duties of God's people to help their fellow men to a better, more godly life.

As the "chosen people of God," the people of Israel had been the recipients of special favors from God. Now they seemed to forget their precious heritage in the promises made to Abraham, Jacob, Moses and others of their great men. Zephaniah felt that this was worse than the invasion of enemies. It means a loss of their character as a righteous people and, as a consequence, he felt sure they would be terribly punished. He pictured a day of judgment which was terrible to contemplate and urged the people to repent ,and turn back to their old ways of pure worship, in the hope that Israel might be saved from destruction.

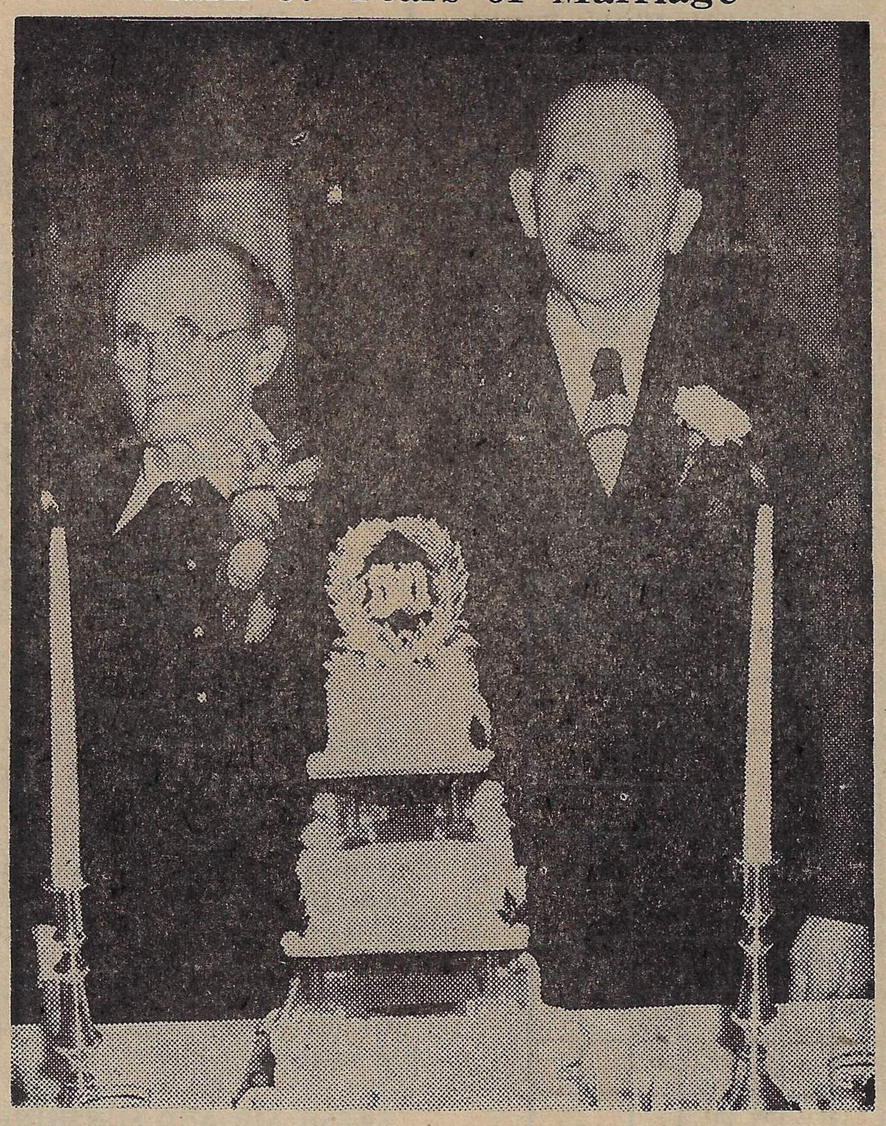

A careful reading of the prophecy of Zephaniah, with his recounting of the conditions of the times and the manners of the people, will, to the thoughtful reader bring out a striking similarity with conditions of our times in our nation. We, as Canadians, have a heritage which we should cherish with every ounce of energy in our being. But our people are in danger of the same punishment that was meted out to Israel for practising the same evils, the paramount evil being an evidence of "forsaking the worship of God altogether."

During this series of lessons, we have seen how the prophets stood as guardians of true religion in their time. Their words come down to us as warnings against similar evils of our day. Shall we ignore these warnings and check upon ourselves before it is too late?

It is true that modern religion does not place enough emphasis on the act of God's justice and the inevitability of judgment for sin. We are too prone to think of sin as a disease which can be cured by some form of therapy, much as we heal the ills of our body. But sin cannot be ended in that way. The way of repentance is still the only way to rid the world of sin, whether it be on the part of an individual or a nation.

Real repentance, such as Zephaniah was asking for, does three things to a person: It brings him cleansing for past wrongdoing; it turns his steps in a new direction with a new purpose, and it gives him new power for achieveing that purpose. Bulwer-Lytton declares: "There is a future left to all men, who have the virtue to repent and the energy to atone."

Field Survey to Map Province of Alberta

The Department of Mines and Technical Surveys, Ottawa, is placing 68 topographical survey parties in the field this year, it has been announced by the Honourable Robert H. Winters, acting minister of this department. These parties will cover a total of 150,000 square miles of territory in work that will provide base maps for use in the development of Canada's mineral and other resources and for the guidance and assistance of engineering projects in various parts of the country. Fifteen of the parties are being provided by the army survey establishment.

D. A. Mackay will be in charge of four parties assigned to one-mile work along the Alaska highway from Edmonton to Smith. Field interpretation will be carried out in the Lac la Biche, Red Deer and Lethbridge areas.

Solution To This Week's Puzzle

Good Health for ALBERTANS

HIGH INTENSITY LIGHT

Every year Canadian workers suffer damage to their eyes because they fail to take precautions against the harmful effects of high tensity light from welding torches, blast furnaces and arc lamps. Safety goggles that offer complete protection against such hazards to the sight should be available in every plant and steps should be taken to ensure that they are used whenever necessary.

LOSS OF WEIGHT

Trying to lose weight? If you are, you'd better consult your doctor before trying to get rid of superfluous fat. Even if loss of weight is desired there are certain foods the body must have, and self-imposed diets often weaken the body without getting rid of much weight. Your doctor is best qualified to say what foods you can safely do without.

FRESH AIR AND SUNSHINE

Fresh air and sunshine are fine for youngsters, but mothers should take care that the very little kiddies get their sunning in easy stages. Sunburn can be serious for anyone, no matter what his age, but for babies and small children it can be even more dangerous. Once a protective coating of tan is acquired exposure periods can be lengthened considerably.

CUTS BURNS AND BRUISES

Cuts, burns and bruises occur in the best regulated households, but wise homemakers guard against such emergencies by providing a well stocked first-aid kit. Even the smallest injuries can be dangerous if not properly attended to, so it is important that materials and "know-how" to deal with day-to-day emergencies are readily available. Your family doctor will be happy to suggest the standard items for a home first-aid kit.

REGULAR CHECK-UPS

Your health is one of your most precious possessions. You can guard it by having regular medical check-ups with your family doctor. Medical examinations frequently reveal common illnesses in their early stages, making treatment and cure faster and cheaper. Get the periodic medical examination habit.

Letter to Louisa

Parents Deny Marriage To Young Couple in Love

Dear Louisa—I have gone steady with a young man of 21 for about two years. He is the nicest boy I ever went out with and he doesn't drink or smoke.

We feel we know each other very very well and are very much in love. But my parents will not let us marry. They feel we should wait another year or so.

Do you think we should wait or just run away and get married like we feel like doing. Please help me to decide.

L. T.

Answer:

You have a problem that confronts a lot of young people, and it is not easy to give a simple, pat answer. Marriage is the most important step in a girl's life, and there are many things to be considered before hand.

But I would not advise you to run away and get married. The thing for you and your sweetheart to do is to show your parents that you are old enough for marriage, and that you are mature enough to make a success of it.

After all, it is only their concern for your welfare that makes them reluctant to tell you to get married right away.

Go ahead and make plans for your wedding and your home. In the meantime show by your actions that you know what you are doing and you shouldn't have too much trouble making your parents see your way.

LOUISA.

Dear Louisa:

I married a man whose home is in the country. I had always lived in town and didn't realize how lonesome and inconvenient it would be to live away from the city, but here I am. I don't know what to do.

I feel like leaving everything and going back to my old job in town. I love my husband and he tries to make things as easy for me as possible but I am so unhappy. I asked him to give up the farm and get a job in town, but he is not willing to do this as he says farming is all he knows and that before long we will be able to have some conveniences.

What do you think will be the best solution of our problem?

MRS. L. J. P.

Answer:

The best solution of your problem to may way of thinking is for you to try to get your chin up and try to make your husband a happy home. You knew he lived in the country when you married him and that was the way in which he expected to support you, so why be a crybaby now and try to get out of your bargain?

If your husband is a good farmer and can make a good living doing such work you would certainly be foolish to try to tear him away from his home for some uncertain work in the city.

People are beginning to go back to the country now-a-days for a freer, fuller life. What with radios, telephones, automobiles, a country home should not be a lonesome one if people love each other.

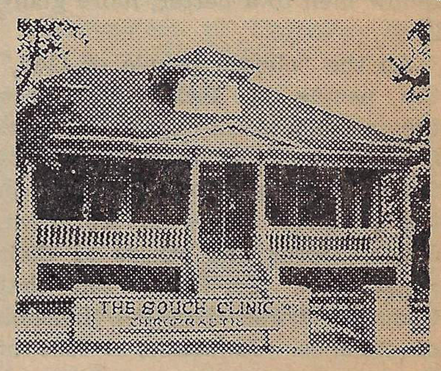

LOUISA.

20th Century FARM NEWS

Even Farm Homes Can Have Nice Lawn

Farm homes can have beautiful lawns. Proper preparation of the area to be used for lawns is all important and care in preparing the soil before seeding the lawn will eliminate many unnecessary difficulties.

Land to be used for lawns should be heavily fertilized with well rotted manure, and be well summerfallowed for at least one full year. The summerfallowing will kill undesirable plant growth and will help destroy many weed seeds. During the summerfallow year the area should be levelled. Rolling two or three times during the season will help to indicate the hallows and humps, and will therefore aid in the levelling process.

Just prior to seeding ,the lawn area should be given a shallow cultivation, then rolled or packed once or twice to give a smooth, level, firm seed bed.

Grasses suitable for use in making lawns in the western provinces are Kentucky Blue, Creeping Red Fescue and Fairway Crested Wheat. Kentucky Blue is not drought-resistant and is recommended only where artificial waterings can be given or in areas where there is ample moisture. Creeping Red Fescue makes a closely knitted turf and will do well in many areas without artificial waterings. Crested Wheat grass does not make a close turf but will stand a great deal of drought and is therefore valuable in dry areas where artificial watering is not practicable.

Kentucky Blue grass should be seeded at the rate of one pound of seed to one hundred and fifty or two hundred square feet and creeping Red Fescue and Fairway Crested Wheat grass at the rate of one pound to one hundred square feet of lawn surface.

Lawn seeding may be done at different times of the season. Ordinarily the best time for this operation is about the end of May or the first week in June. Crested Wheat grass may be seeded successfully just before winter sets in or early in the spring. Small lawns can be seeded by hand, the Large lawns can be drilled in shalseed raked in with a garden rake. lowly, using a seed-drill.

AFA Assists In Flood Relief Fund

The Alberta Federation of Agriculture has announced that their organization will assist in raising funds for aMnitoba flood victims.

Mr. Marler, president of the federation, in making this announcement, stated that he was sure that many of our farmers to help re-establish farmers and others in this stricken area. The loss to all those who have had to vacate their homes will take many years of labor and frugal living to replace, but in comparison the loss to farmers will be considerably greater.

If the farmers could get on their land in the next two weeks, the crops could be planted. The reports are, however, that it will be some time before the flood waters are drained away. On top of this, it will take considerable time before the water-logged fields can be cultivated.

It is very doubtful if any crops will be harvested in this area other than green feed for livestock. In this way, along with loss to property, the farmer will lose the major portion of his yearly come.

With these facts in mind, the federation urges all Alberta farmers to assist their flood stricken neighbors by helping them to become re-established when they can return to their homes.

On the Control of Couch Grass

Couch Grass or Quack Grass control presents one of the toughest weed problems in Western Canada. Intensive cultivation is still the only effective way of controlling large infestations of this creeping perennial grass weed. A brief description of two common but distinctly different cultural methods of fighting Couch Grass is presented here.

Method I. This is the older method of Couch Grass control. It is based on the principle of exposing the lower stems and roots to the drying effects of wind and sun during the hot, dry, midsummer period. It involves shallow plowing, starting in mid-June, followed by repeated and deeper tilling as the season advances. The persistent use of the duckfoot or spring-toothed cultivator is necessary in order to bring the entire stem and root system to the surface.

Method II. The object of this newer method of Couch Grass control is to starve the plants to death—a matter of exhausting the food supplies which are stored in the roots. It means repeatedly cutting-off the green portions of the plants. The one-way disk is a particularly effective implement for this purpose. If the disks are kept sharp they will penetrate the toughest of sods, and make a thorough 'cut' at shallow depth. Diskings should commence about mid-June and continue at intervals of not more than two weeks during the summer and fall months.

Whatever cultural method is adopted, systematic, well-timed cultivations are necessary for success. Copies of our new circular, "Couch Grass Control by Cultural Methods" may be obtained, free of charge, through local Line Elevator Agents, or directly from Line Elevators Farm Service, Winnipeg, or Calgary.

MANITOBA FLOOD RELIEF FUND. Have you made your contribution to this national emergency fund? If not, do it today.

Pressure Boosts Yield

An advanced method for producing crude oil may result in recovery of up to 90 per cent of the oil in a given pool. Hydrocarbon gas mixtures are injected into wells at high pressures to achieve this result. This method is still in the experimental stage, however, and field tests are being made later this year.

Weather Delays Work On New Oil Pipeline

HUGHENDEN. — Extremely unseasonable weather has been delaying work on the $93,000,000 oil pipe line being built from Edmonton to Great Lakes, but despite this about 100 miles have been completed near this eastern Alberta town.

Interprovincial Pipeline company officials state that although the initial period of construction is behind schedule, the 1,100-mile line will be completed this fall.

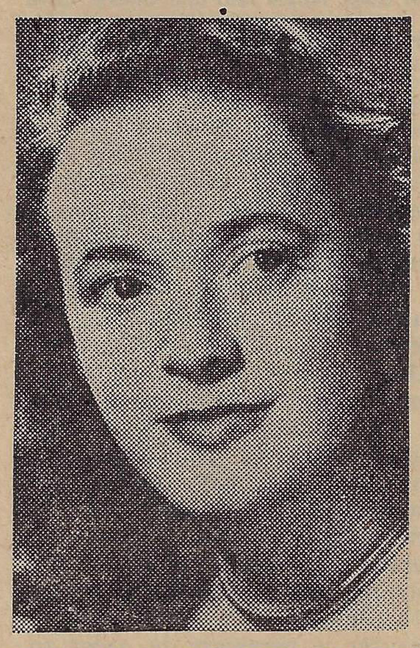

Hughenden-Edmonton spread of the line is now snaking its way day by day toward the capital city. Huge ditching machines are at work gouging out the earth, and crews of men are welding and lowering the pipe into the ditch.

Plans are to have oil pouring through the line by October. It was originally planned to build the line from Edmonton to Regina only but now extensions will carry oil to Superior, Wis., and to Winnipeg, as well as pipe oil from the Redwater fields into Edmonton.

The Alberta section of the pipe line passes near Provost, Hardisty, Amisk, Hughenden, Czar, Killam and Daysland.

In the two eastern divisions, from Regina to Gretna, Man., and from Gretna to Superior, Wis., flood conditions and heavy spring snowfalls have prevented work, except in a few areas.

Officials of the pipeline firm said the delays experienced so far are not serious and that providing summer work can continue at a good pace, the pipe line will be completed on schedule.

GISELE LaFLECHE, Canada's radio chantreuse, star of her own radio program, "Meet Gisele" (Tuesday afternoons at 4:00), is an example of how far Canadian artists can go in radio. Native of Winnipeg, she also stars in a new Quebec film, "Le Fiacre."

Growers Seek Most Suitable Alfalfa Varieties

Alfalfa is increasing and with the greater interest in this crop, growers are looking for the most suitable varieties

Grimm has been almost the standard variety since the legume was first introduced to the prairies It has been, and remains, satisfactory for the production of hay, but, because of the scarcity of seed and high prices prevailing in recent years, plant breeders have been seeking varieties that would set seed more consistently than Grimm, and at the same time retain high vigor and forage yielding propensities

During the last ten years some fifteen new varieties and selected strains have been tested at the dominion experimental farm, Brandon. Ladak has established a definite superiority for hay, followed in order by Rhizoma, Ranger, Canauto, Viking, Buffalo, Grimm and Ferax. All these varieties have proved sufficiently hardy under soil and cimlatic conditions at Brandon. The main differences responsible for their varying abilities to produce hay, are in crown development, height and vigor of plant, and in density of foliage. For instance, Ferax has been welcomed as a new variety because of its tendency to set more seed than Grimm, but it has characteristically thinner foliage and fewer leaves than most of the varieties under trial and these deficiencies appear to be responsible for its relatively poor performance in the hay tests. On the other hand, Ladak is stall, vigorous and has a dense foliage. Rhizoma develops a dense crown, but at Brandon its reputed creeping root habit has not been strikingly evident.

The Famous Five Are Sixteen

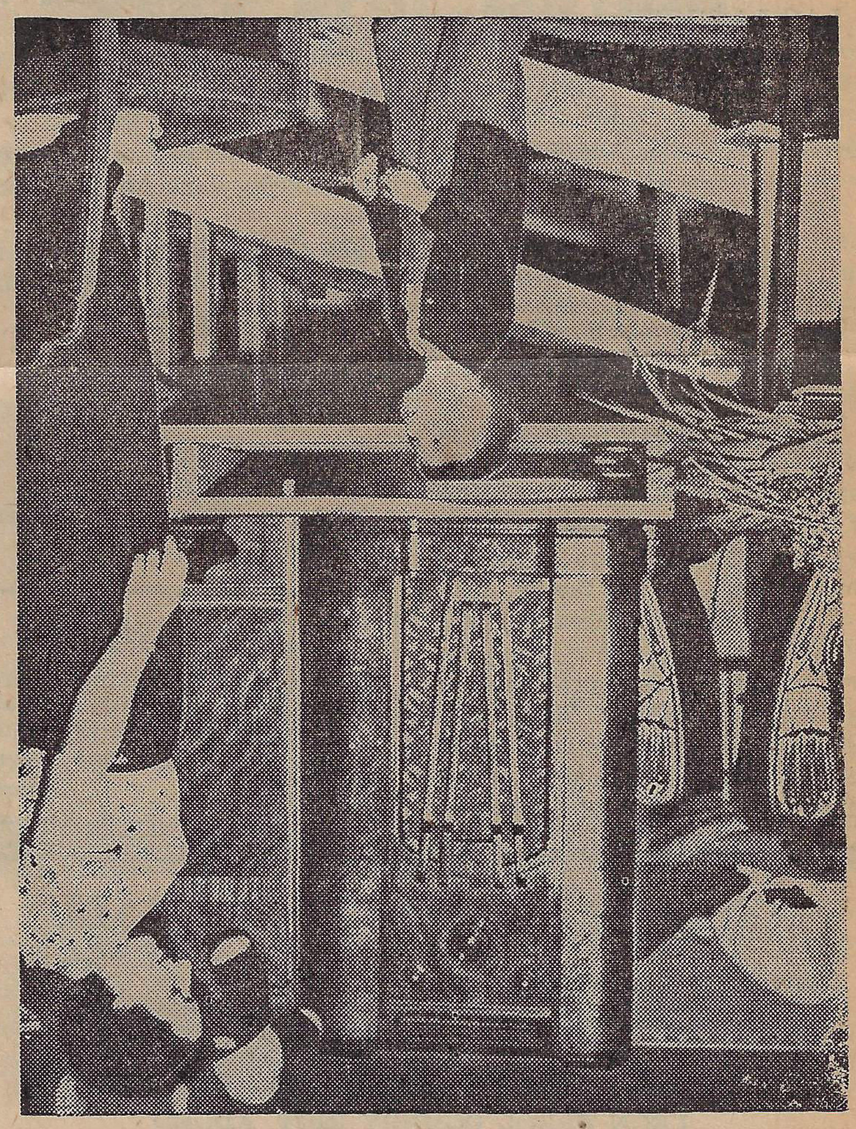

The Dionne quintuplets have good cause for reflection as they gaze into a mirror while celebrating their 16th birthday recently at their Corbeil, Ontario, home. In the upper picture, taken ten years ago, they were looking into the same glass, but time has made some changes.

Popular Pair

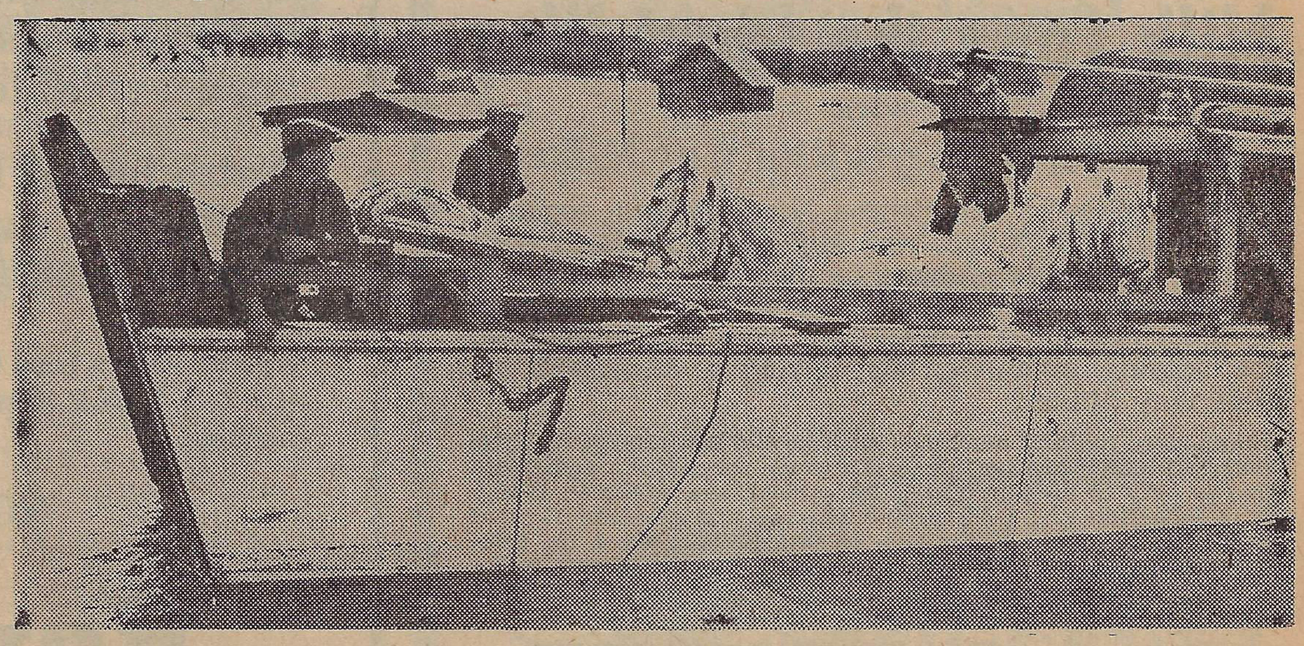

A popular pair of Paramount stars are Barbara Stanwyck, and Van Heflin, seen here. First seen together in "The Strange Love of Martha Ivers," they are currently appearing in "East Side, West Side," a film portraying the inside story of New York society life. The familiar triangle is uppermost in the plot of this feature, in which James Mason also takes top billing.

Housecleaning Starts in Winnipeg

"We're fortunate," says Mrs. T. L. de Wit of Winnipeg. "We were told to move from our house two weeks ago and only our basement was flooded." She and four-year-old Bryan, like thousands of others, are tackling the job of replacing furniture stacked on stilts to protect it from the flood.

Winnipeg Flood Cost Farmers $20,000,000

Some 2,000 farms near Winnipeg are still covered with flood water, and every day farmers brave three and two foot waves in their home-made barges to feed their cattle. Flooded farms cover about 500,000 acres, of which 400,000 is normally seeded to grain. Horses are seen here being evacuated from a flooded farm.

EGG LAKE NEWS NOTES

Seeding is completed in our district. Let us pray for rain to make things grow. We need it badly. It is too bad that we are so far from the Red River our land could absorb many inches of that water that has done so much damage in Manitoba. The big winds we have had these last few weeks have dried the land so much.

On May 26, our teacher Mrs. Leo Bourassa gave a dance for the Peterson fire fund. Quite a few attended and the proceeds were quite reasonable. Mr. Peterson has now rebuilt his home with the help of charitable neighbors. Friday, June 2, Mr. G. Rocheleau of Sarail came to our Bouvier school to give us a show. It is the first time that he has come, let us hope that it will not be the last.

Miss Marie Jeanne L'Heureux is now working in Lac la Biche, for her aunt, Mrs. W. Tardif. She will spend a few weeks there.

Jos. L'Heureux, son of A. L. L'Heureux has hurt his knee while playing and will have to spend some time in the hospital.

Wedding bells will soon ring for one of our young men. We will say more about it soon.

New Store Opens At Lac La Biche

LAC LA BICHE.— A new five to a dollar store, opposite the hotel on a corner block of the intersection of Main street and Railway avenue is opening for business.

Under the direction of Mike Hamar and the capable management of Miss Polly Shulka, with experienced clerks Miss Rose Pruden and Miss Mary Hacko, customers are assured prompt and efficient service.

Featuring novelty goods and notions, women's wear, the harassed father can, with a minimum of shopping worry, choose with his eye, useful articles to mark the anniversaries of his family.

At this store counters, a fallen husband can find the solution for the age old doghouse problem that burdens married life. At least a gift from the women's wear racks will restrict any prolonged period of reflection, enforced by his accidental slip from the "Water Wagon."

The young man can easily rid himself from the obnoxious presence of her little brother in an evening session with his best girl, for small cost a dozen suggestions offer themselves at the open displays, atractively aranged.

All in all, we feel that this establishment will find a popular trade and give a service to the Lac la Biche area for many better reasons than those quoted above.

Milk Cows the Right Way

WITH

The Massey-Harris Rite Way Milker

The scarcity of experienced hand milkers, together with the high wages for any available farm help, creates a difficult problem for dairymen who wish to profit from the demand for dairy products. Thousands of dairymen have found relief from the problem of maintaining production by buying a Massey-Harris Rite Way Milker.

The modern milking machine—such as the Massey-Harris Rite-Way meets a need long felt by dairymen for milking equipment that is easy to install, easy to keep clean and sanitary, is uniform in action and that stimulates free and plentiful flow of milk from the cows. Cows soon become accustomed to the Rite-Way method of milking. Ask your local Massey-Harris dealer for full particulars.

"Stepping Out"

The average American on vacation this year will travel a greater distance and spend more money for gasoline, oil and food than ever before, according to a magazine survey. Mr. Tourist is expected to spend an average of $279 and travel 1,630 miles. This is $66 and 381 miles above the figures for 1949. Since most vacationists travel by automobile, the oil industry will play a big part in meeting record demands of pleasure-bound Americans.

FREEDOM FOOTNOTES

Miss Eugene Lehman and Mr. Bill Rysick were married on June 12 in St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Edmonton. Reception was held in the Trocadero ballroom.

Wedding bells will soon be ringing for Jewel Meyers and Norton Bruns. The date is not set as yet, but it it is believed to be some time in July. Congratulations.

A shower in honor of Miss Alva Donnelly was held in the Freedom hall last Sunday evening. Many useful gifts were received by the surprised bride-to-be and the whole evening was an enjoyable one for everybody. The ribbons from the presents were tied together and the single gals formed a circle while Alva passed the string around each flutering female, the end of which was to decide who would be the next bride. Calling Elsie Carlson??

Speeches were made by the happy couple in which they expressed their gratitude to their many friends for the lovely things given to them.

We ustn't forget to mention the fathers too who made speeches and told jokes deligting their audience no end. Joe and Alva church Barrhead on June 17 at 2:00 p.m. A dance will be held in the hall the same night.

Maybe its all these wedding bells thats keeping the Freedom baseball team from winning a game. It must be something. The Barrhead was a mess, the score 20-7. We're still hoping though.

Our heartfelt sympathies go to Steve and Fred Krysa in their their eighteen-year old sister Josephine who died in an Edmonton hospital last week. The cause of the death was to be a brain hemmorrhage. Jo was planning to be married next month. Mrs. Krysa mother of the boys has been very ill and was convalescing at home was taken to the hospital following the death of her youngest daughter. We sincerely hope she is feeling better.

We are sorry to hear Don Donnelly is in the Westlock hospital suffering from quinsy. All your friends wish you a speedy recovery.

"Lady," said the policeman who had motioned her to stop, "how long do you expect to be out?"

"What do you mean by that question?" she demanded indignantly.

"Well," he replied sarcastically, "there are a couple of thousand other motorists who would like to use the street after you get through with it."

PROTECT YOUR CROP INVESTMENT BY WINDROWING THE McCORMICK-DEERING WAY

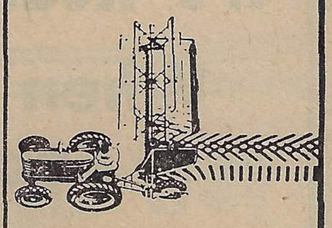

To prevent any damage to your grain crop from weather, insects, weeds or moisture, windrowing before threshing is certainly a step forward in farming practices—especially when done the McCormick-Deering way!

The No. 120 Windrower (12 or 15-foot size) handles the grain quickly and easily in its smooth operation. Adjusts to crops of all heights. Completely power-driven, it has the light draft that comes from use of numerous ball and roller bearings, and gears running in oil. The No. 6, in 6 and 8-foot sizes, is built for use on smaller acreages.

You'll probably agree with us that windrowing can mean a better grade of grain under many conditions... and now we'd like to point out how well a McCormick-Deering Windrower can do this job for you. Stop by next time you're in town.

Low-built windrower bends stubble.

Grain laid like lattice on rising stubble.

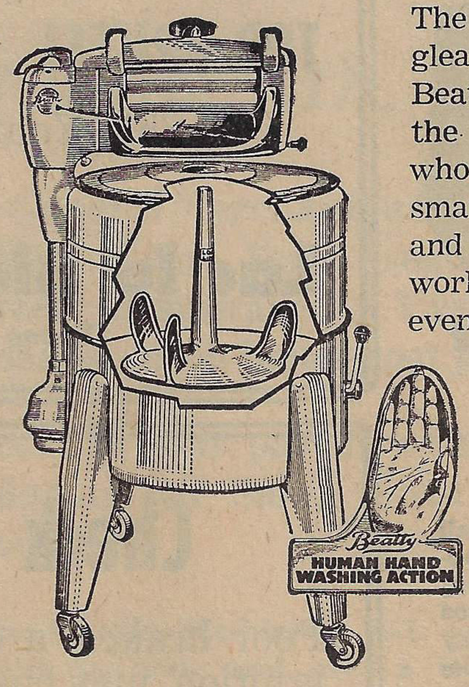

Off ground windrow permits free air circulation.

Canadian Prelate Heads Holy Year Pilgrimage

Scheme Transforms Farm Into Modern Showplace

MORINVILLE. — The 1950 Cinderella story is now being enacted on the farmstead of Mr. Felix Meunier, located 2 miles north and ½ mile west of Morinville.

Until about two weeks ago, this family of eight lived very quietly on the old ½ section of land with its set of run-down and unpainted buildings. Mr. Meunier was busy seeding part of his land and Mrs. Eva Meunier's time was well taken up with the daily chores of a farm wife, mother of six children, and no conveniences.

Then a miracle happened. Mr. J. M. Fontaine, Morinville district agriculturist, informed the Meunier family that their farmstead had been chosen by the Morinville Service Board for the purpose of becoming the first demonstration farm of this type to be introduced in all Canada. With no expense whatsoever on the part of the owner, the place is to be transformed into a completely modern and up-to-date home and model farm.

A water system is to be piped to the house and piggery. A full plumbing job is to be done in the house. The kitchen is to be remodelled and equipped with Luna gas for cooking. The entire home is to be decorated. All buildings on the farmstead are to be painted and 600 trees are to be planted to provide a good windbreak.

Besides, a rotation crop system is to be supervised to recondition the soil. Mixed farming is to be introduced to help improve living conditions, and records will be kept to show progress made.

At present an army of tradesmen are to be seen day after day transforming this old place that was pioneered by the grandparents of Mr. Meunier, into an up-to-date place.

And how do Mr. and Mrs. Meunier feel about it all? "It's wonderful," is all that Mr. Meunier said. But his happy smile revealed what words failed to say. As for Mrs. Meunier, she finds the going pretty embarrassing at times with six small children to care for and her house being torn apart and put back together again.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Meunier are from pioneer stock of the Morinville district. Mr. Meunier, age 35, is the son of the late Adelard Meunier and his mother, still living, was the former Mary Rose Majeau. Mrs. Meunier, born Eva Rivet, is the daughter of the late Napoleon Rivet. Her mother still resides in Morinville and was the former Marianne Riopel. All the parents are from the first families to settle here in the late 1890.

Mr. and Mrs. Meunier were married in the St. Jean Baptiste church on December 26, 1939 by the late Msgr. M. Pilon and now have a family of six beautiful children; Rachelle 8, Rita 7, Agnes 6, Adelard 5, Lucien 4, and Louise 2½ years old.

At present the entire stock on the farm consists of three head of horses, one cow, no pigs, and 150 chicks bought this spring. They have to buy all the eggs, butter and meat consumed by the entire family of eight. This will be changed when mixed farming becomes effective on this demonstration farm.

June 19 is the date set for the formal Homesteading and Field day to be held on this farmstead, when a full day of public demonstrations by the firms who supplied the material and workmanship for this great project will be on hand. Speeches by several farm and soil experts will be made with on-the-spot explanations and a full film of the proceedings will be made by the government.

The Morinville Service Board and the Morinville Board of Trade are taking great pride in this wonderful enterprise and are sponsoring this idea by taking a leading role in the work oragnization.

A public meeting will be held on Thursday, June 8, when the final plans will be scheduled for the great day, June 19.

GOODFISH LAKE NEWS BRIEFS

GOODFISH LAKE. — Mrs. Hughes and Miss Potter spent the king's birthday at Saddle Lake, from which they returned with additional medical supplies for the Health Centre. Miss Potter is kept busy advising Goodfish Lake residents and helping them with their health problems. Since her arrival she has treated more than a hundred and is keeping a vigilant record of the school children. With the unremitting care of the children, it is hoped they will prove to be missionaries of good health habits, and a new and hopeful note will be sounded in this isolated area, where, when illness strikes, it has always been a major problem to obtain medical assistance. Mothers are urged to bring their babiese to the centre and place them under regular supervision, thus we hope to banish forever the sudden tragedy of infant deaths which might have been avoided by proper feeding and care.

The death of the venerable Augustine Steinhauer at Saddle Lake has cast a gloom over this community. Many of our people are relatives of the Steinhauer family, who have been connected with this district for more than a hundred years, and who did so much for the early inhabitants. Our sympathy is extended to the sorrowing family and friends.

Thomas Jackson and Peter Shirt of this district have joined the trek to Cardston, where, on the Blood Reserve on Friday and Saturday of this week the Indian Association has assembled. Goodfish Lake Indians have long known Messrs. Jackson and Shirt have their interests at heart, and that the way to best help the people to help themselves is to unite in demanding that the foremost objective of all Indian Department employees be the welfare of the Indian people. Now that the government is wholeheartedly behind a program for Indian advancement. (Last year the sum of twenty-two million was spent on the Indians of Canada.) The Indians themselves should co-operate with a vigorous intention to banish forever any failure to seize opportunities for which they might have been blamed in the past.

Our new school is carrying on in the last working month minus half of the back door, result of the high winds which have visited this locality recently. We are fortunate that there were no bush fires to coincide with the winds, as the school has no fire fighting equipment.

Lyman Half of Saddle Lake was a visitor to Goodfish Lake on Thursday.

Frank Cardinal of Whitefish Lake took his wife to Vilna hospital on Thursday.

A threat of wolves in the district has alarmed the parents of school children, some of whom have a three-mile walk to school. Mothers come with the little ones rather than have them miss a day.

A jumping deer was bounding about the Goodfish school house the other evening. We think he heard about the new Health Centre and was looking for Miss Potter. Someone must have told him about her "needles," because he bounded sadly away. Last night a huge skunk, his tail waving gradly as a progressed across the ground like an ocean liner at sea, passed by, and we're glad he passed! All this goes to show that our new school and health centre have no color lines. We tae all scents too.

Colin Shirt was the victim of an accident on June 8. A car in which he was riding overturned near Spedden. We are glad to report him unhurt.

On Sunday, June 18, Rev. Bernard Thackeray will preach his farewell sermon at Goodfish Lake in the United Church. After more than four years work in this district Mr. Thackeray has earned a large place in the hearts of his flock, whom he has served spiritually as in the more practical fashion of bestowing help in their worldly necessities. Since the opening of the school he has left many gifts of clothing, books and games for the children. His genial presence will be sadly missed, and we know he will carry with him, wherever he goes, a genuine interest in the Goodfish people. His new field will be Bentley and will provide a less isolated home for his popular wife and two small children, one of which is approaching school age.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Sparkling Eyes was baptized by Rev. Mr. Thackeray on Sunday the fourth, and given the names Alex, Russell. Bon voyage, young man.

The Allis-Chalmers Model "WD" tractor is typically Allis-Chalmers in appearance and streamlining. It retains all of the features and qualities that made its predecessor, the Model "WC" a top favorite with farmers and ranchers in all parts of the world. But it goes beyond all previous conceptions of what a farm tractor should be, and introduces a new standard by which tractors of this type will henceforth be measured. There are three popular styles from which you can choose. Dual front wheel, tricycle style . . . single front wheel style . . . and adjustable front axle style.
